All literature courses at UCSD are offered by a single Department of Literature. The department brings together writers, teachers, scholars, and students of several different languages and literatures. Here, they are united by the nature of the studies they pursue. This lends a comparative aspect to both undergraduate and graduate programs, which lead to the bachelor of arts, master of arts, the candidate in philosophy, and doctor of philosophy degrees. All students must show knowledge of a foreign literature by doing upper-division or graduate work in that literature in the original language. Courses are offered not only in the literatures themselves but in the theoretical aspects of literature and—often in cooperation with other departments—in the relationship of literary study to other disciplines such as philosophy, visual arts, music, sociology, history, psychology, linguistics, and communication. With special permission, undergraduates may take graduate courses for credit, and graduate students may also take undergraduate courses for credit.

The UCSD Library's Mandeville Department of Special Collections offers the undergraduate and graduate literature student an excellent range of resources, including single-author collections, rare and out-of-print books, tapes, maps, and historical archives. Of special interest are the Southworth Collection of Spanish Civil War materials, the Hill Collection of South Pacific Voyages, the Don Cameron Allen Renaissance collection, and the Archive for New Poetry. Within the latter collection are an extensive series of single-author archives, including the papers of Paul Blackburn, Donald Allen, Lew Welch, Charles Reznikoff, Joanne Kyger, Jerome Rothenberg, and others. The Archive for New Poetry is one of the largest collections of contemporary poetry in the United States. Graduate students also have access, facilitated by travel grants, to all other University of California research collections.

Careers for Literature Majors

A major in literature opens many career possibilities. Education is a primary option, but specializations in literature (English, Spanish, etc.) and writing also serve as excellent preparation for graduate and professional programs. A degree in literature provides a strong background for the LSAT and law school. Medical schools seek out students who are prepared not only in the sciences, but also in the humanities and writing. The business world seeks college-trained English majors, and international corporations actively recruit students with a specialty in French, German, Italian, Russian, or Spanish. Literature majors find careers in advertising, book editing and publishing, journalism, communications, mass media, and other professions where writers and editors are in demand. The knowledge of a second language and culture provides literature majors with a decided career advantage.

Secondary School English Teaching

The literature department offers an excellent preparation for teaching English/ESL in secondary schools. Suggested majors include Literatures of the World (with a TEP focus), Literatures in English, and Literature/Writing. If you are interested in receiving a California teaching credential from UCSD, contact the Teacher Education Program for information about prerequisites and professional preparation requirements. Please consult the TEP and the literature department early in your academic career to plan an appropriate literature curriculum.

The Undergraduate Program

Lower-Division Preparation

Lower-division requirements vary, depending on the literature program in which the student elects to concentrate. However, the department strongly recommends that, as part of the freshman/sophomore course work, students who have chosen or are considering a major in literature begin an appropriate lower-division language sequence in the Department of Linguistics or Literature as preparation for upper-division course work in a foreign language and literature. All literature majors require knowledge of a second language.

Writing Component in Literature Courses

It is the departmental expectation that students in lower-division courses should write a minimum of 2,500 words per course. In upper-division courses the minimum requirement is 4,000 words per course.

The Major in Literature

There are nine majors available to students within the Department of Literature: Literatures in English, French, German, Italian, Russian, Spanish, Literatures of the World, Writing, and the composite major in two literatures. Requirements vary from program to program as described below. Once a student has decided upon a major in literature, he or she is required to meet regularly with an adviser in the Department of Literature. Worksheets defining major requirements are available in the literature undergraduate office to help students organize their course work.

All students majoring in literature must study a secondary literature, that is, a literature written in a language different from that of their primary literature. The range of secondary literatures includes Classical Greek, Hebrew, and Latin, as well as the previously mentioned French, German, Italian, Russian, Spanish, and for those concentrating in a foreign literature, English. Students will satisfy this requirement by taking three courses in the secondary literature, given substantially in the native language. At least one of these courses must be upper-division. Students should see an adviser to confirm the selection of the specific courses that will be taken to satisfy both the lower-division and the upper-division components of the secondary literature requirement.

The lower-division component within the secondary literatures may be satisfied by: French 2B and either 2C or 50; German 2B and 2C; Hebrew 2 and 3 (see "Judaic Studies"); Italian 2B and 50; Greek 2 and 3; Latin 2 and 3; Russian 2B and 2C; two courses from Spanish 50A-50B-50C. For majors other than Literatures in English, two courses from English 27-28-29 and 60, 21-22-23-25-26, and 50 are applicable. (Literatures of the World and writing courses may not be applied toward the English secondary literature requirement.) Note: World Literature courses taught in English do not apply unless there is a foreign-language discussion section and materials are available in the foreign language. World Literature (LTWL) courses whose primary focus is U.S. literature may apply toward secondary literature requirements in Literatures in English.

Upper-division courses in the secondary literature are counted as part of the total number of upper-division courses required for the major. Students are free to choose from any of the regularly scheduled upper-division offerings in their secondary foreign literature. Special Studies courses (198s and 199s) cannot be used to satisfy upper-division secondary literature requirements.

All regularly-scheduled departmental courses taken to satisfy the requirements of the literature major, including courses in the secondary literature, must be taken for a letter grade. No grade below C- is acceptable for a course taken in the major.

At least six of the upper-division courses for the major, including a minimum of four in the primary literature and one in the secondary literature, must be taken at UCSD.

Dual Major in Literature

The dual major in literature permits a student to develop a solid foundation in two literatures while remaining within one department. Because the UCSD Literature Department houses literatures that are divided among different departments at most universities, our dual major allows students to coordinate their studies with a single, closely-knit group of faculty, and to arrange their program without repeating two different sets of major requirements. (For example, since a dual major necessarily combines literatures written in two different languages, it automatically fulfills the foreign-language requirement for the literature major.)

Students pursuing a dual major work closely with a faculty adviser to plan a program of study that meets the following requirements:

1. Students will select two literatures of concentration (Literature 1 and Literature 2)
 - a. one of the literatures must be in a language other than English;
 - b. both concentrations, however, can be in non-English literatures; thus a student can choose English and French, for example, or Russian and Spanish, French and Italian, German and Latin, Spanish and English, etc., but not Literatures of the World or Literature/Writing.
2. Students will meet all lower-division major requirements for each of the two literatures of concentration. See specific "Primary Concentration" listings above; English, Spanish, and Russian, for example, all have lower-division requirements for the major.
3. Students will take eight upper-division courses in each of the two selected literatures of concentration for a total of sixteen upper-division courses.
 - a. these must satisfy the upper-division course requirements for each of the two majors. Thus, for example, if one of the concentrations is English, the student must include courses from each of the five stipulated categories; if one of the concentrations is Spanish, upper-division courses must include LTSP 119A, B, or C, 130A, and 130B.
 - b. beyond the upper-division requirements for each literature of concentration (Literature 1 and Literature 2), students will take a sufficient number of elective courses in each of the two literatures of concentration to make a total of eight upper-division courses in each chosen concentration.

Honors Program

The department offers a special program of advanced study for outstanding undergraduates majoring in literature. Admission to this program ordinarily requires an overall GPA of 3.5 and a literature major GPA of 3.7 at the beginning of the senior year. Students meeting these requirements will be sent, during the latter part of fall quarter, an invitation to participate in the program. Interested students who anticipate that they will not meet the established criteria may petition to participate in the program by submitting a personal statement and three letters of support from members of the literature faculty by the end of the third week of fall quarter. During the winter quarter of their senior year, all honors students together take an honors seminar (LTWL 191), which aims to deepen their understanding of the issues of theory and method implied in the study of literature. This seminar lays the groundwork for an honors thesis, written in spring quarter (LT 196), each under the supervision of a faculty member who specializes in the literature of the student's primary concentration. The Honors Program concludes with an oral examination of each honors candidate by a faculty committee, which is charged with recommending whether departmental honors are warranted and, if so, which degree of honors will appear on the student's transcript and diploma. A student from this program will also be recommended for the Burckhardt Prize, which is awarded at graduation for outstanding achievement in the literature major. The honors seminar and thesis course may be applied toward the primary concentration in the literature major. For Literature/Writing majors, the honors seminar is considered to be equivalent to a writing workshop.

Special Studies

These upper-division independent studies opportunities are intended for advanced students, able to work on their own, and interested in a topic not normally covered by departmental offerings.

Students with upper-division standing, a departmental GPA of at least 3.0, an overall GPA of at least 2.5, and completion of lower-division prerequisites in the subject, are eligible to take Special Studies courses (198s and 199s). Those not satisfying these criteria may, with justification supported by the proposed Special Studies instructor, petition for an exception to the regulation. 198s and 199s require at least 4,000 words of writing or an equivalent project as determined by the instructor. Information and Special Studies Enrollment forms are available in the literature undergraduate office. Enrollment requires departmental approval. These courses may not be used to satisfy upper-division secondary literature requirements for majors.

Study Abroad

Study abroad can significantly enhance a student's major, particularly in ways in which it relates to international issues. Literature students are encouraged to study abroad before their senior year. Students who take Education Abroad Program or Opportunities Abroad Program (EAP/OAP) courses in a country appropriate to their major may use up to five upper-division courses to satisfy major requirements or a total of three toward a minor. For dual majors in literature, six courses from abroad may apply, with no more than four toward either one of the two concentrations. These must be approved by the department after they have been entered on the student's official record at UCSD. The approval process is described in a hand-out on receiving transfer credit, available in the Literature Undergraduate Office.

Individual Program Requirements

Primary Concentration in Literatures in English

1. Six lower-division courses:
 - a. LTEN 21, 22, and 23.
 - b. LTEN 25 and 26, plus one of the following: LTEN 27, 29, or 29.

Even if some or all of these courses are used toward meeting a college's humanities or general-education requirements, they will still count toward satisfying the requirements for the major in literatures in English.

2. Nine upper-division courses from literatures in English offerings, including courses from each of the following three categories:
 - a. Two British literature courses, one each from periods before and after 1660.

- b. Two U.S. literature courses, one each from periods before and after 1860.
 - c. One course in world Anglophone literature(s) with focus other than British or U.S. literatures.
3. One upper-division course in the history of criticism or in literary/cultural theory and methods from among the following: LTTH 110; LTTH 115; or LTCS 100.
 4. Three courses in a secondary literature, at least one of which must be upper-division. (See "The Major in Literature", above.)
 5. Upper-division electives chosen from Department of Literature offerings to make a total of twelve upper-division courses.

Primary Concentration in a Foreign Literature

Literatures in French

1. Nine upper-division courses as follows:
 - a. LTFR 115-116, Themes in French Intellectual and Literary History
 - b. Seven additional upper-division courses in French literature, including at least one course in each of the following periods: seventeenth or eighteenth century; nineteenth century; and twentieth century.
2. Three courses in a secondary literature, that is, a literature written and taught in a language other than French. At least one of these courses must be upper-division. Special studies courses (198s and 199s) and courses in foreign literatures which are taught in French do not apply to the secondary literature requirement.
3. Upper-division electives chosen from Department of Literature offerings to make a total of twelve upper-division courses.

Literatures in German

1. Nine upper-division courses in German literature. Three of these should be in literature written before the year 1850.
2. Three courses in a secondary literature, that is, a literature written and taught in a language other than German. At least one of these courses must be upper-division. Special studies courses (198s and 199s) and courses in foreign literatures taught in German do not apply to the secondary literature requirement.

See The Major in Literature, above, for applicable lower-division courses.

3. Upper-division electives chosen from Department of Literature offerings to make a total of twelve upper-division courses.

Literatures in Italian

1. Nine upper-division courses in Italian literature as follows:
 - a. LTIT 100, Introduction to Italian Literature
 - b. LTIT 115, Medieval Studies
 - c. LTIT 161, Advanced Stylistics and Conversation
 - d. LTCS 140, Subaltern Studies in Context or LTIT 150, Italian North American Culture
 - e. Five additional upper-division courses in Italian literature taught in Italian
2. Three courses in a secondary literature, that is, a literature written and taught in a language other than Italian. At least one of these courses must be upper-division. Special studies courses (198s and 199s) and courses in foreign literatures taught in Italian do not apply to the secondary literature requirement. See The Major in Literature, above, for applicable lower-division courses.
3. Upper-division electives chosen from Department of Literature offerings to make a total of twelve upper-division courses.

Russian Literature

1. Russian 1A-B-C and 2A-B-C or their equivalent
2. Twelve upper-division courses in Russian:
 - a. LTRU 104A-B-C
 - b. LTRU 110A-B-C
 - c. Six additional upper-division courses in Russian literature
3. Three courses in a secondary literature, that is, a literature written and taught in a language other than Russian. At least one of these courses must be upper-division. Special studies courses (198s and 199s) and courses in foreign literatures taught in Russian do not apply to the secondary literature requirement. See The Major in Literature, above, for applicable lower-division courses.

Students in the Russian literature major are encouraged to participate in the Education

Abroad Program (EAP) in Moscow and to investigate other options for foreign study through the Opportunities Abroad Program (OAP). By petition, credits earned through EAP/OAP can fulfill UCSD degree and major requirements.

Literatures in Spanish

1. Two lower-division Spanish literature courses, as indicated:
 - a. LTSP 50A, Peninsular Literature
 - b. Either LTSP 50B or LTSP 50C, Latin American Literature
2. Nine upper-division courses as follows:
 - a. LTSP 130A, Development of Spanish Literature
 - b. LTSP 130B, Development of Latin American Literature
 - c. LTSP 119AB, or 119C (Cervantes)
 - d. Six additional upper-division courses in Spanish, Latin American, and/or Chicano literature (taught in Spanish)
3. Three courses in a secondary literature, that is, a literature written and taught in a language other than Spanish. At least one of these courses must be upper-division. Special studies courses (198s and 199s) and courses in foreign literatures taught in Spanish do not apply to the secondary literature requirement. See The Major in Literature, above, for applicable lower-division courses.
4. Upper-division electives from Department of Literature offerings, whether in Spanish or in another literature, to make a total of twelve upper-division courses.

Students majoring in Spanish can choose to concentrate on either Spanish or Latin American literature. All students, however, are encouraged to take courses in the various national literatures as well as in Chicano literature for a broad background in Spanish language literatures.

Students not having a solid linguistic base in Spanish are advised to take intermediate language courses from the LTSP 2 and 50 sequences for additional review of Spanish grammar, development of writing skills, and introduction to literary analysis. Only 50A and either 50B or 50C, however, can count towards the major.

It is strongly recommended that students take LTSP 130A before any other upper-division Spanish (peninsular) literature course and LTSP 130B before any other upper-division Latin American literature course.

Primary Concentration in Literatures of the World

The major in Literatures of the World allows students to expand the focus of their work beyond a single-language literature. They plan an individual program with options in regional studies (Europe, the Americas, East Asia, Africa, Near East) and topical studies (genre, period, gender, ethnic literature, teacher education, literature and the visual arts, cultural studies, literature and science, writing, Third World Studies, The Western Tradition) as well as the single-language literatures.

1. Lower-division (three courses):

A three-course sequence in literature chosen from any section in literature.

Note: Students can combine courses in an original national language/literature with courses in translation to satisfy this requirement, such as LTFR 2A and 2B plus LTWL 4A (Fiction and Film in the 20th Century: France)

2. Upper-division (twelve courses):

- six courses in a regional or single-language literature, to be taken in the original language(s) or in translation
- four courses focused on a topic or another regional or single-language literature
- two courses in non-European and non-U.S. literature; if satisfied under group (a) or group (b), any other two literature courses may be substituted.

3. Three courses in a secondary literature, that is, a literature written and taught in a language different from that of the primary literature. At least one of these courses must be upper-division. Upper-division courses taken to satisfy the secondary literature requirement may be counted as part of the twelve upper-division courses for the major and may, where appropriate, be applied to requirements in Group 2 or 3. Students should see an adviser when selecting specific courses that will be taken to satisfy this requirement. Special studies courses (198s and 199s) and courses in foreign literatures taught in translation do not apply to the secondary literature requirement. See The Major in Literature, above, for applicable lower-division courses.

At least two of the required twelve upper-division courses must be in literature written before 1850. No more than four courses in Lit/Writing may be taken as part of the world literatures major, and these will generally apply to Group 2.b.

Courses formerly listed under General Literature were renumbered effective fall 1998 under the following subject headings:

LTAF–African Literatures

LTAM–Literature of the Americas

LTEA–East Asian Literatures

LTEU–European and Eurasian Literatures

LTNE–Near Eastern Literatures

LTWL–World Literatures (courses or sequences which do not belong to a single linguistic or regional grouping)

The Pre-Writing Major

Until they are admitted to the writing major, students may indicate their interest in writing by declaring a pre-writing major using the pre-writing major code (LT01). Admission to the writing major will be determined by evaluation of each student's performance in the LTWR 8A/8B/8C sequence.

Normally, students are expected to achieve a grade of B or better in each of these courses to ensure their eligibility for declaring the major.

Primary Concentration in Writing

The writing major is designed to provide directed experience in writing prose fiction and nonfiction, media workshops, and poetry, as well as intensive work in practical criticism. An indispensable feature of the program is that it involves students with the work of their peers. Those who think of themselves as writers will find courses regularly offered in the various genres to develop their own style and breadth of experience in composing and criticism. Students who are primarily interested in the teaching of writing will find the major a context both for writing extensively and for dealing critically with the act of written composition. Students must complete the sequence LTWR 8A-B-C prior to declaring a major in Literature/Writing. The major requirements are as follows:

1. Any of the following literature sequences:

- LTWL 4A-B-C-D-E-M—any three courses in the sequence (Fiction and Film in Twentieth-Century Societies)
 - LTWL 19A-B-C (Introduction to the Ancient Greeks and Romans)
 - LTEN 21 and 22, plus one course chosen from LTEN 23, 25, 26, 27, 28, and 29.
 - TWS 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26 (Third World Literatures)
2. Twelve upper-division courses:
- Six upper-division courses in Lit/Writing from the writing workshop sequence (LTWR 100–135). These workshops may be repeated for credit (see course listing for number of times workshops may be repeated), but the requirement should show a range of writing experience in at least two major writing types. No other courses may be substituted for this basic requirement of six upper-division workshops.
 - One course from the group numbered Lit/Writing 140-144.
 - Five upper-division electives chosen from Department of Literature offerings.
3. Three courses in a secondary literature, that is, a literature written and taught in a language other than English. At least one of these courses must be upper-division. Students should see an adviser when selecting specific courses that will be taken to satisfy this requirement. Special studies courses (198s and 199s) and courses in foreign literatures which are taught in English translation do not apply to the secondary literature requirement. See The Major in Literature, above, for applicable lower-division courses.

Double Major in Literature/Writing and a Subject outside Literature

Students who wish to major both in Literature/Writing and in a department other than the Department of Literature must fulfill all requirements for the writing major as described above. Students must submit a double major petition for approval by the participating departments and the student's provost office.

Double Major within the Department of Literature in Literature/Writing and Another Literature

Students who wish to major both in literature/writing and in literature (any section) should see the department for information regarding appropriate double major requirements. Generally, all requirements for each major must be completed, though the secondary literature and two upper-division courses, where appropriate, may overlap from one major to the other.

The Minor in Literature

The department offers a wide range of possibilities for noncontiguous minors. The options include courses in a single regional or national literature, courses in more than one literature, and a combination of language and literature courses. In all instances, the minors require six or seven courses depending upon a student's first quarter of attendance at UCSD. All courses taken to complete a literature minor must be taken for a letter grade. No grade below C- is acceptable.

Please see the department undergraduate office for specific minor requirements.

For students entering winter quarter 1998 and thereafter, a minor in literature will consist of seven courses as described below.

French, German, Greek, Italian, Latin, Russian, or Spanish Literature: seven courses, at least four of which must be upper-division in the same literature.

Literatures in English, Literatures of the World, and Literature/Writing: seven courses, at least five of which must be upper-division.

Lower-division courses applicable toward minors:

English—LTEN 21, 22, 23, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 50, 60

French—LTFR 2A-B-C, 50

German—LTGM 2A-B-C

Greek—LTGK 1, 2, 3

Hebrew—JUDA 1, 2, 3 (see Judaic Studies)

Italian—LTIT 2A-B, 50

Latin—LTLA 1, 2, 3

Russian—LTRU 2A-B-C

Spanish—LTSP 2A-B-C-D, 50A-B-C

Writing—LTWR 8A-B-C

General Minor—For students entering fall 1997 and earlier: six Literature courses, at least three of which must be upper-division: usually 1) a three-course lower-division sequence such as LTEN 17/18/19, LTEN 21/22/23, LTFR 2A/2B/50, LTGN 19A/9B/19C, LTLA 1/2/3, LTSP 2A/2B/2C; and 2) three or more upper-division courses, at least two of which must be in a single national literature, taught either in the original language or in translation. No more than one upper-division course in Literature/Writing may be applied toward the general literature minor. Students should see the general literature faculty adviser or the undergraduate staff when planning a minor or program of concentration in general literature.

Literatures of the World—For students entering Winter 1998 and thereafter: seven literature courses, at least five of which must be upper-division—usually 1) a two- or three-course lower-division sequence and 2) five upper-division courses with a single unifying theme.

Writing Minor—Seven courses, at least five of which must be upper-division. The minimum of five upper-division courses must cover at least two major writing genres, with course work chosen from writing courses numbered 100 through 146.

Please see the department for further information and specifics regarding minors in literature.

The Graduate Program

Doctoral Degree Program

The department offers a single Ph.D. in literature with concentrations in any of the fields in which members of the department do research (see below). The C.Phil. (candidate in philosophy) is conferred upon all students who pass the qualifying examination and are advanced to candidacy for the Ph.D. Students in the doctoral program may also qualify for the M.A. upon completion of their qualifying examinations.

Preparation

The following are requirements for admission to graduate study in literature:

1. A baccalaureate or a master's degree with a major in one of the literatures offered by the department, or in another field approved by the departmental committee on graduate studies.

2. Satisfactory scores on the Graduate Record Examination achieved within the past three calendar years. The Subject Test is not required.
3. A complementary working knowledge of a second language.

Completed applications and supporting materials must be received by the deadline posted on our Web site: <http://literature.ucsd.edu>, for admission to the following fall quarter. Those planning to apply should take the Graduate Record Examination far enough in advance so that the scores will be available to the admissions committee in January.

Course of Study

Formal study begins with a first-year, three-quarter introductory sequence (Literature/Theory 200A-B-C) having an interdisciplinary and theoretical emphasis. During the first three years, the course of study will include at least four seminars in one literature and two in another (students in comparative literature must take at least one seminar or upper-division undergraduate course in a third literature); at least four seminars drawn from offerings in literary theory, the second or a third literature, cultural studies, comparative literature, or composition studies; and five additional seminars open entirely to the student's choice (four for students in comparative literature). Such "open" seminars should generally be related to the intended dissertation field. Seminars in other disciplines may be substituted for any of the latter group, with the adviser's permission. Students must also fulfill a historical breadth requirement by completing two seminars dealing with texts or cultural practices prior to 1800. For students with approved M.A. degrees the initial three-year sequence can be reduced to two.

Students in comparative literature must take four of the above-described seminars in comparative literature. Comparative literature seminars taken for Literature 1, 2, or 3 must be substantially focused upon the relevant language and deal with materials in the original. Students who wish to take these courses in a literature for which seminars are not regularly offered in the Department of Literature may substitute 298s or undergraduate courses enhanced by additional assignments. To do so, however, students must demonstrate through prior course work that they have already attained graduate-level competency in the literature and language in question and they must obtain approval from the comparative literature graduate adviser.

In the sixth quarter, students may register for one four-unit independent study course to prepare reading lists for the subject-area qualifying examinations. The third year is spent in taking seminars and in preparing for the qualifying examinations. During this year, students may register for one four-unit independent study course in which they work on the long paper required for the qualifying examinations.

The qualifying examination is usually taken during the ninth quarter of enrollment. It must be completed by the end of the tenth quarter. The fourth and fifth years will be devoted to preparation of the dissertation.

Students may write dissertations in any of the fields in which members of the department do research. These fields include English, American, French, German, biblical Hebrew, Italian, Greek, Latin, Spanish, Chinese, Japanese, Russian, Chicano, Asian-American, and African-American literature, comparative literature, literary theory, women's studies, cultural studies, early modern studies, and composition studies.

Specialty in Composition Theory, Research, and Practice

The Department of Literature offers special studies to graduate students who wish to concentrate on composition theory, research, and practice. The composition subspecialty is an interdisciplinary course of study that requires students to work with faculty both in the department and across the university. The department regularly offers graduate seminars taught by faculty in composition, along with a variety of seminars on history, theory, cultural studies, and literatures in English of special interest to students in composition. Students in special studies in composition take two research methods courses outside the department on topics such as field work, historiography, or research design in the human sciences to qualify them to conduct the research for their dissertations. Students are also encouraged to apply to teach in one of the five college undergraduate writing programs on campus, to see for themselves how classroom and administrative practice intersect with theory and research.

Language Requirements

Graduate students in literature are required to develop the ability to read literary and secondary texts and—when appropriate—to follow seminar discussions or lectures in a second language, a language other than the one in which the literature of their intended specialization is written. To satisfy this requirement students must demonstrate language proficiency and completion of two seminars in the literature of the second language or, in exceptional cases, by completing with the grade of A two upper-division undergraduate courses given in the language. Students must pass an examination in reading, interpretation, and translation in each of the two courses taken to satisfy the second language requirement. The language requirements must be satisfied by the end of the third year of study.

Doctoral students specializing in comparative literature require knowledge in depth of two foreign languages. "Knowledge in depth" means the ability to attend graduate seminars given in the original language (or seminars where the texts are read in the original language). Students must demonstrate this ability by enrolling in such seminars or, where this is not possible, by taking guided independent study in the language in question.

The M.A. program in comparative literature requires knowledge in depth of one foreign language.

Advancement to Candidacy

No later than the first quarter of the third year, the student should choose a Ph.D. adviser, who will, in consultation with the student, form a qualifying examination committee. The student and the qualifying examination committee will jointly determine the nature of the long research paper, (approximately 30 pages) and the two areas of specialization upon which the student will be examined in writing. After satisfactory completion of the paper and the written examinations, the student will take a two-hour oral doctoral examination. On passing the oral examination, the student is declared eligible for advancement to candidacy for the Ph.D. The C. Phil. degree is conferred on those so advanced. Thereupon, a doctoral dissertation is written. This work is defended in a traditional final examination.

Teaching

The department requires that each Ph.D. student do some apprentice teaching before the completion of the degree; the minimum amount required is equivalent to the duties expected of a half-time teaching assistant for three academic quarters. This teaching involves conducting, with the guidance and support of a supervising professor, discussion sections and related activities in a variety of freshman and sophomore courses. Academic credit is granted for the training given under the apprentice teaching program.

Grading

The only grading option for literature graduate courses is Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory (S/U). Students receive written evaluations of their performance in seminars.

Departmental Ph.D. Time Limit Policies

Students must be advanced to candidacy by the tenth quarter of study. Departmental normative time is five years. Total registered time at UCSD cannot exceed eight years.

Financial Support

Ph.D. students entering the program with a B.A. may be supported (either by employment or fellowships) for five years. Students who have an M.A. and have been given transfer credit may be supported for four years. Such support depends upon the funds available, the number of students eligible, and the rate of progress.

Master's Degree Program

The master's degree program is intended to meet the needs of several groups: (1) persons interested in possibly applying later, at UCSD or elsewhere, for admission to a Ph.D. program and wishing to strengthen their preparation for such a program; (2) persons seeking a master's degree only, for reasons of professional development or cultural enrichment; and (3) graduate students who have been admitted to the Ph.D. program and who decide to qualify also for a master's degree. The M.A. degree is currently available in five fields: literatures in English, French, German,

Spanish, and Comparative literature. It is possible to take an M.A. with specific emphasis; for example, students may take an M.A. in Spanish with a special emphasis on bilingual discourse, or an M.A. in English with a special emphasis on composition theory. A special emphasis in cultural studies may be declared in combination with any M.A. degree. Note: The department does not offer financial support for M.A. candidates. It is possible, in cases of full-time employment or other compelling reasons, to apply for permission to enroll on a part-time basis.

Completed applications and supporting materials must be received by the deadline indicated in the department's Web site for admission to the following fall quarter. Those planning to apply should take the Graduate Record Examination far enough in advance so that the scores will be available to the admissions committee in January.

The requirements for the M.A. degree are a total of thirty-six units. Included must be the following:

1. Twenty units of graduate seminars, including Literature/Theory 201, which is normally taken during a student's first quarter in the program.
2. Eight additional units of graduate seminars, upper-division courses, and/or guided independent study. Up to four units of supervised teaching at UCSD may be applied toward this eight-unit requirement.
3. For the M.A. in French, German, Spanish, and Literatures in English, students will be required to complete a minimum of sixteen units of course work—including graduate seminars, upper-division classes, and Literature 298—in the specific literature, read in its original language, in which they will receive their degree. For the M.A. in comparative literature students will be required to complete a minimum of twelve units of course work in one literature of concentration. Comparative literature seminars are recommended when their focus is substantially upon the literature in question and they deal with materials in the original language.
4. Four units of literature in a language other than that of the student's principal concentration. For students in French, German, Spanish and literatures in English, this course may be taken either in the original language or in translation, and it may be used toward fulfilling the requirements listed under items 1 and 2 above. An upper-division or graduate course in English or American literature may be used to fulfill this requirement by students working toward an M.A. degree in French, German, or Spanish. An upper-division course in general literature may be taken to satisfy this requirement as long as its principal readings were originally written in a language other than that of their principal concentration. For the M.A. in comparative literature students must take either eight units of seminar work in the second literature (other than the literature of concentration) or four units of seminar work in a second and four units of seminar or upper-division course in a third literature. Texts or other materials must be dealt with in the original languages. Comparative literature seminars are recommended when their focus is substantially upon the literature in question and they deal with materials in the original language.

5. For the M.A. in comparative literature students must take at least one seminar in comparative literature. This requirement can be satisfied by a course taken for item 3 or item 4 above. Students wishing to take courses for requirements 3 or 4 above in a literature for which seminars are not regularly offered in the Department of Literature may substitute 298s or upper-division undergraduate courses enhanced by additional assignments. To do so, however, students must demonstrate through prior course work that they have already attained graduate-level competency in the literature and language in question and they must obtain approval from the comparative literature graduate adviser. Such 298s and upper-division courses should not exceed a total of two courses within a student's program unless demonstrably necessary.
6. Eight units of guided research, culminating in an acceptable master's thesis or master's examination.

The only grading option for literature graduate courses is Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory (S/U). Students receive written evaluations of their performance.

COURSES

Note: A list of specific course offerings (with names of instructors for the following academic year) is available in the undergraduate office of the Department of Literature, LIT 3110. A list of graduate course offerings is available in the graduate office, LIT 3140.

Undergraduate students may enroll in graduate seminars with the consent of instructor and will receive a P/NP grade unless they petition for a letter-grade option within the first four weeks of the quarter in which the course is taken.

CHINESE LITERATURE

UPPER-DIVISION

Prerequisite: upper-division standing or consent of instructor. Additional prerequisites may be specified below.

LTCH 101. Readings in Contemporary Chinese Literature (4)

Intended for students who have the competence to read contemporary Chinese texts, poetry, short stories, and criticism in vernacular Chinese. May be repeated for credit as topics vary.

COMPARATIVE LITERATURE

GRADUATE

LTCO 202B-C. History of European Criticism and Aesthetics (4-4-4)

A core course for comparative literature, strongly recommended for all graduate students in the comparative literature program. A historical survey of criticism and aesthetics divided as follows: 202B, Renaissance to Enlightenment; 202C, Romanticism to late nineteenth century.

LTCO 210. Classical Studies (4)

Analysis of significant works of the Greek and Roman traditions, with attention to their interest for later European literature. May be repeated for credit as topics vary.

LTCO 212. Studies in the Hebrew Bible (4)

Analysis of books of the Hebrew Bible from literary, historical, archaeological, theological, and psychological perspectives; text-critical and source-critical study of the Hebrew text. Repeatable for credit when topics vary.

LTCO 231. Eighteenth-Century Studies (4)

One or more major writers, texts, or trends of eighteenth-century European literature. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTCO 242. Nineteenth-Century Studies (4)

Consideration of one or more major figures, texts, trends, or problems in the nineteenth century. May be repeated for credit as topics vary. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTCO 252. Modernism (4)

A sample investigation into the concept of period. The course will deal also with the question of the existence of modernism, the description of the phenomenon, and the causes to which it is to be attributed. May be repeated for credit as topics vary.

LTCO 264. Oral Literature (4)

An introduction, through the study of recordings of actual oral performance as well as of the written record, to research in oral literature and the theoretical and methodological problems entailed. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTCO 270. Historical Thinking (4)

This seminar will address the ways in which concepts of history inform interpretive projects in comparative literature. Topics will include: hermeneutics, historicism, philology, the “new” historicism, historiographic theory, “Third World” historiography, the history of books, and experimental historiography. Repeatable for credit when topics vary.

LTCO 274. Genre Studies (4)

A consideration of a representative selection of works relating to a theme, form, or literary genre. May be repeated for credit as topics vary.

LTCO 281. Literature and Film (4)

A study of literature and film in relation to one another, to critical and aesthetic theories, and to historical contexts.

LTCO 282. Literature and Philosophy (4)

Questions and problems from the history of philosophy or from the various fields of philosophy (e.g., epistemology, ethics, logic) in their interaction with intellectual issues and questions addressed by literary criticism and theory. Repeatable for credit when topics vary.

LTCO 295. M.A. Thesis (1–8)

Research for the master’s thesis. Opened for repeated registration up to eight units. (Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory grades only.) Prerequisite: enrolled in M.A. program.

LTCO 296. Research Practicum (1–12)

Research project to be developed by a small group of students under the continued direction of individual faculty members. Primarily a continuation of a previous graduate seminar. The 296 courses do not count toward the seminar requirement. Repeatable for credit.

LTCO 297. Directed Studies: Reading Course (1–12)

This course may be designed according to an individual student’s needs when seminar offerings do not cover subjects, genres, or authors of interest. No paper required. The 297 courses do not count toward the seminar requirement. Repeatable for credit.

LTCO 298. Special Projects: Writing Course (1–12)

Similar to a 297, but a paper is required. Papers are usually on subjects not covered by seminar offerings. Up to two 298s may be applied toward the twelve-seminar requirement of the doctoral program. Repeatable for credit.

LTCO 299. Dissertation (1–12)

Research for the dissertation. Offered for repeated registration. Open only to Ph.D. students who have advanced to candidacy.

LITERATURE/CULTURAL STUDIESLOWER-DIVISION*LTC5 50. Introduction to Cultural Studies (4)

An introduction to cultural studies with a focus on the following areas: literary and historical studies, popular culture, women’s studies, ethnic studies, science studies, and gay/lesbian studies. Particular emphasis on the question of “cultural practices” and their social and political conditions and effects. (Not offered 2002–03.)

UPPER-DIVISION

Prerequisite: upper-division standing or consent of instructor.

LTC5 100. Theories and Methods in Cultural Studies (4)

Reading in some of the major theoretical texts that have framed work in cultural studies, with particular emphasis on those drawn from critical theory, studies in colonialism, cultural anthropology, feminism, semiotics, gay/lesbian studies, historicism, and psychoanalytic theory. Prerequisite: upper-division standing.

LTC5 110. Popular Culture (4)

A reading of recent theory on popular culture and a study of particular texts dealing with popular cultural practices, both contemporary and noncontemporary, as sites of conflict and struggle. Repeatable for credit when topics vary.

LTC5 120. Historical Perspectives on Culture (4)

The course will explore the relation among cultural production, institutions, history, and ideology during selected historical periods. In considering different kinds of texts, relations of power and knowledge at different historical moments will be discussed. Repeatable for credit when topics vary. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTC5 130. Gender, Race/Ethnicity, Class, and Culture (4)

The course will focus on the representation of gender, ethnicity, and class in cultural production in view of various contemporary theories of race, sex, and class. Repeatable for credit when topics vary.

LTC5 135. Interdisciplinary Approaches to Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender Studies (4)

Introduction to interdisciplinary examination of human sexuality and, especially, lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender identities and desires. Juxtaposes perspectives from humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences. Introduces queer theory to understand sexuality in relation to phenomena such as government, family, culture, medicine, race, gender, and class. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTC5 140. Subaltern Studies in Context (4)

This course will explore some basic texts related to subaltern studies and the variations in the field as related to national and historical situations. Repeatable for credit when readings and focus vary. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTC5 150. Topics in Cultural Studies (4)

The course will examine one or more forms of cultural production or cultural practice from a variety of theoretical and historical perspectives. Topics may include: contemporary debates on culture, genres of popular music/fiction/film, AIDS and culture, the history of sexuality, subcultural styles, etc. Repeatable for credit when topics vary.

LTC5 155. The Cultural Politics of Science and Technology (4)

The course will examine interventions by the technologies in the lives of citizens in the domains of biology, genetics, and medicine, including technologies of reproduction, drug testing, the Human Genome Project, scientific/medical responses to AIDS, etc. Repeatable for credit. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTC5 170. Visual Culture (4)

The course will focus on visual practices and discourses in their intersection and overlap, from traditional media, print, and photography to film, video, TV, computers, medical scanners, and the Internet. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTC5 198. Directed Group Study (4)

Directed group research, under the guidance of a member of the faculty, in an area not covered in courses currently offered by the department. (P/NP only.) Prerequisite: permission of the department.

LTC5 199. Special Studies (2 or 4)

Individual reading in an area not covered in courses currently offered by the department. (P/NP only.) Prerequisite: permission of the department.

GRADUATELTC5 201. Theories and Methods of Analysis in Cultural Studies (4)

Contemporary theories of cultural studies. The seminar will concentrate on major interpretive approaches drawn from several areas of cultural and political analysis, including historicism, Marxist theory, feminism, structuralism, psychoanalytic theory, semiotics, post-modernist studies, gay and lesbian studies, and others. The particular focus and approach may vary. Repeatable for credit. Prerequisite: graduate standing or consent of instructor. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTC5 202. Cultural Texts (4)

This seminar will examine a wide-ranging variety of cultural texts and use them to explore methods of reading and interpreting culture. Cultural texts may include: popular music, popular literature, film/TV/video, comics, photography, performance art. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTC5 210. History and Culture (4)

This seminar will focus on the cultural practices of a particular historical period as a means of analyzing the relation between culture/ideology and economic and political modes of production and domination. Topic, historical period, and theoretical approach may vary. Repeatable for credit. Prerequisite: graduate standing or consent of instructor.

LTC5 220. Film/TV/Video Studies (4)

The seminar will concentrate on genres or subgenres within film/TV/video studies or on a stand of film/TV/video theory. Possible topics may include: horror film, melodrama, sitcoms/soaps/talk shows, music videos, black or queer cinema, etc. Repeatable for credit.

LTC5 222. Theory and History of Film (4)

This course will consider various theoretical approaches to film texts (historical-materialist, feminist, psychoanalytic, semiotic) as well as the history of film, the political economy of film production and distribution, exhibition practices, and spectatorship in national and transnational contexts. Repeatable for credit. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTC5 225. Interdisciplinary and Historical Analysis of Cultural Texts (4)

The seminar will focus on a particular historical period and examine a variety of cultural texts vis-a-vis related historical, economic, political, and sociological discourses. The conjunction and disjunction of approaches will be explored in relation to specific texts. Repeatable for credit. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTCS 250. Topics in Cultural Studies (4)

This seminar will be organized around any of various topic areas relating to cultural studies. These might include studies in colonialism, historicism, gender, sexuality, social institutions, popular culture, subaltern practices, etc. May be repeated for credit as topics vary. Prerequisite: graduate standing or consent of instructor.

LTCS 255. Cultural Studies, Colonialism, and Decolonialization (4)

This course considers different approaches to the study of colonialism in a variety of national contexts. Educational, legal, religious, military, and cultural apparatuses of colonialism, theories of decolonialization, the "postcolonial" and feminist critiques of "modernity"/modernization will also be studied. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTCS 256. Cultural Studies of Technoscience (4)

The course will explore work in cultural studies, feminist studies, and queer theory of scientific practices altering social relations, cultural identities, and conceptions of "nature." Issues may include the AIDS pandemic, genetic research, electronic communities, reproductive technologies, and other topics. Repeatable for credit.

LTCS 260. National Cultures (4)

Selected topics on the construction of national cultural identities. Investigation of the dynamics of canon formation and nation building in specific historical contexts. Repeatable for credit. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTCS 295. M.A. Thesis (1–8)

Research for master's thesis. May be repeated for a cumulative total of up to eight units.

LTCS 296. Research Practicum (1–12)

Research project to be developed by a small group of students under the continued direction of individual faculty members. Primarily a continuation of a previous seminar. The 296 courses do not count toward the seminar requirement. Repeatable for credit.

LTCS 297. Directed Studies: Reading Course (1–12)

This course may be designed according to an individual student's needs when seminar offerings do not cover subjects, genres, or authors of interest. No paper required. The 297 courses do not count toward the seminar requirement. Repeatable for credit.

LTCS 298. Special Projects: Writing Course (1–12)

Similar to a 297, but a paper is required. Papers are usually on subjects not covered by seminar offerings. Up to two 298s may be applied toward the twelve-seminar requirement of the doctoral program. Repeatable for credit.

LTCS 299. Dissertation (1–12)

Research toward the dissertation. Open only to Ph.D. students who have advanced to candidacy. Repeatable for credit.

LITERATURES IN ENGLISH

LOWER-DIVISION

LTEN 21. Introduction to the Literature of the British Isles: Pre-1660 (4)

An introduction to the literatures written in English in Britain before 1660, with a focus on the interaction of text and history.

LTEN 22. Introduction to the Literature of the British Isles: 1660–1832 (4)

An introduction to the literatures written in English in Britain and Ireland between 1660 and 1832, with a focus on the interaction of text and history.

LTEN 23. Introduction to the Literature of the British Isles: 1832–Present (4)

An introduction to the literatures written in English in Britain, Ireland, and the British Empire (and the former British Empire) from 1832 to the present, with a focus on the interaction of text and history.

LTEN 25. Introduction to the Literature of the United States, Beginnings to 1865 (4)

An introduction to the literatures written in English in the United States from the beginnings to 1865, with a focus on the interaction of text and history.

LTEN 26. Introduction to the Literature of the United States, 1865 to the Present (4)

An introduction to the literatures written in English in the United States from 1865 to the present, with a focus on the interaction of text and history.

LTEN 27. Introduction to African American Literature (4)

A lecture/discussion course that examines a major topic or theme in African American literature as it is developed over time and across the literary genres of fiction, poetry, and belles lettres. A particular emphasis of the course is how African American writers have adhered to or departed from conventional definitions of genre.

LTEN 28. Introduction to Asian-American Literature (4)

This course provides an introduction to the study of the history, communities, and cultures of different Asian-American people in the United States. Students will examine different articulations, genres, conflicts, narrative forms, and characterizations of the varied Asian experience.

LTEN 29. Introduction to Chicano Literature (4)

This course provides an introduction to the literary production of the population of Mexican origin in the United States. Students will examine a variety of texts dealing with the historical (social, economic, and political) experiences of this heterogeneous population.

LTEN 50. Introduction to Shakespeare: The Theatre and the World (4)

An introduction to Shakespeare's dramatic achievement through the study of several major plays—representative comedies, histories, and tragedies—in their literary, intellectual, and social contexts. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 60. Topics in Ethnic American Literature (4)

A lecture and discussion course that critically examines the literary and cultural production emerging out of racialized, ethnic, and immigrant communities in the United States. Course may include fiction, poetry, novels, plays, popular culture, and film.

UPPER-DIVISION

Prerequisite: upper-division standing or consent of instructor. Additional prerequisites may be specified below.

LTEN 106. The Medieval Period (4)

Studies in medieval English literature. Topics such as medieval allegory in English, Chaucer's contemporaries,

Middle English lyrics, and Middle English romances as well as surveys of Middle English literature will be presented. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 107. Chaucer (4)

A study of Chaucer's poetic development, beginning with The Book of the Duchess and The Parliament of Fowls, including Troilus and Criseyde, and concluding with substantial selections from The Canterbury Tales. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 110. The Renaissance: Themes and Issues (4)

Major literary works of the Renaissance, an exciting period of social and cultural transformation in England as elsewhere in Europe. Topics may include a central theme (e.g., humanism, reformation, revolution), a genre (e.g., pastoral), or comparison with other arts and sciences.

LTEN 112. Shakespeare I: The Elizabethan Period (4)

A lecture/discussion course exploring the development of Shakespeare's dramatic powers in comedy, history, and tragedy, from the early plays to the middle of his career. Dramatic forms, themes, characters, and styles will be studied in the contexts of Shakespeare's theatre and his society. Enrollment limited to upper-division students.

LTEN 113. Shakespeare II: The Jacobean Period (4)

A lecture/discussion course exploring the rich and varied achievements of Shakespeare's later plays, including the major tragedies and late romances. Dramatic forms, themes, characters, and styles will be studied in the contexts of Shakespeare's theatre and his society. Enrollment limited to upper-division students.

LTEN 114. Shakespeare III: Stage, Film, and Television (4)

A lecture/discussion/laboratory course involving the close study of six to eight plays representative of Shakespeare's artistic career with particular emphasis upon the interrelation of Elizabethan plays and the stage and the critical implications of transposing plays to film and television. (Generally offered in summer session only.)

LTEN 115A. The Sixteenth Century: Themes and Issues (4)

Selected topics concerned with sixteenth-century English literature as a whole. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 115D. The Golden Age of Elizabethan Literature (4)

An introduction to the literary achievement of Elizabethan England during the last two decades of the sixteenth century. Works by major writers in a variety of literary forms (e.g., sonnet, mythological poem, romantic epic, pastoral, satire, prose fiction, heroic and tragic drama) are studied in relation to relevant social contexts. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 116. Elizabethan and Jacobean Drama (4)

The study of representative plays from one of the great moments in the history of dramatic literature. Tragedies and comedies, primarily by Shakespeare's contemporaries and successors, are read in the context of the historical, social, and intellectual background of the period.

LTEN 117A. The Seventeenth Century: Themes and Issues (4)

Selected topics in English literature during a period when writers felt deeply the impact of social change, religious controversy, the emergence of the "New Science," and the English Civil War. Readings chosen from among the works of a diverse group of writers, including Jonson, Donne, Bacon, Milton, Marvell, and Dryden. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 118. Milton (4)

A critical examination of the major works, including Paradise Lost, by an author who was both a central figure in English political life in a revolutionary age and, in the view of most critics, the greatest non-dramatic poet in the English language. The course will study his poetic development in a variety of historical contexts.

LTEN 119. Restoration Literature (4)

The literature of a period following twenty years of civil war and revolution which saw the reopening of theatres and the rise of the professional writer. Topics may include Restoration comedy and tragedy; satire; neo-classical literary theory.

LTEN 120A. The Eighteenth Century: Themes and Issues (4)

Selected topics in English literature during an age of satiric writing, the shift from neoclassicism to romanticism, the emergence of the novel, and the expansion of the reading and writing public among the middle class and women. Writers such as Defoe, Pope, Swift, Richardson, Johnson, Burney, Wollstonecraft. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 120D. William Blake and the Age of Sensibility (4)

A study of the great visionary poet and artist, William Blake, in the context of several of his eighteenth-century contemporaries, such as Gray, Collins, Chatterton, and Cowper. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 120E. Women in the Eighteenth Century (4)

Selected topics concerning British women writers and readers in an age of increasing female participation in print culture. Topics include women writers; representations of women, domesticity, and the family in the novel, in drama, in satire; early feminist writing; literary constructions of gender. May be repeated for credit when topics vary.

LTEN 125A. Romanticism: Themes and Issues (4)

Selected topics concerned with the romantic period as a whole. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 125B. First Generation Romantic Poets (4)

The poets who came of age during the French Revolution and who inaugurated literary modes that continue in our own time: Wordsworth, Coleridge, Blake, and their contemporaries.

LTEN 125C. Second Generation Romantic Poets (4)

Byron, Keats, Shelley, and their contemporaries.

LTEN 125F. Byron and Byronism (4)

Lord Byron's life, works, and cultural impact, including an examination of some later authors, such as Carlyle and the Brontës, who responded to Byron through their own writings. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 125G. Keats and His Poetical Heirs (4)

The major poetry of John Keats considered together with selected works influenced by him, including poems by such authors as Tennyson, Christina Rossetti, Hopkins, Hardy, Yeats, and Stevens. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 127A. The Victorian Period: Themes and Issues (4)

Selected topics concerned with Victorian literature as a whole. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTEN 127B. Victorian Poetry (4)

LITERATURES IN SPANISH

LOWER-DIVISION

Language and Literature Courses

Students entering the Spanish language/literature program must have completed one year of college-level Spanish (Linguistics/Spanish 1C/1CX) or its equivalent at another institution or have the consent of the instructor. Ordinarily, students take LTSP 2A, 2B, 2C, and one or more courses from the 50 sequence. Native speakers are encouraged to take LTSP 2D.

LTSP 2A. Intermediate Spanish I: Foundations (5)

This course is taught entirely in Spanish and emphasizes the development of reading ability, listening comprehension, and writing skills. It includes grammar review, weekly compositions, and class discussions. Prerequisite: completion of LISP 1C/1CX, 1D/1DX, or the equivalent or score of 3 on AP Spanish language exam.

LTSP 2B. Intermediate Spanish II: Readings and Composition (5)

This course further reviews major points of grammar and emphasizes critical reading and interpretation of Spanish texts through class discussion, vocabulary development, and written compositions. It is a continuation of LTSP 2A. Prerequisite: LTSP 2A or score of 4 on Spanish language or 3 on Spanish literature AP exam or consent of instructor.

LTSP 2C. Intermediate Spanish III: Cultural Topics and Conversation (4)

This course is a continuation of LTSP 2B, with special emphasis on problems in writing and translation. It includes class discussion of cultural topics as well as grammar review and composition. The course will further develop the ability to read articles, essays, and longer pieces of fictional/nonfictional texts. Prerequisite: LTSP 2B or equivalent or score of 5 on Spanish language or 4 on Spanish literature AP exam or consent of instructor.

LTSP 2D. Intermediate/Advanced Spanish: Spanish for Bilingual Speakers (4)

Spanish for native speakers. Designed for bilingual students seeking to become biliterate. Reading and writing skills stressed with special emphasis on improvement of written expression and problems of grammar and orthography. Prepares native speakers with little or no formal training in Spanish for more advanced courses. Prerequisite: native speaking ability and/or recommendation of instructor.

LTSP 21. Conversation Workshop I (1)

Allows students with a basic grounding in Spanish to discuss a variety of topics related to literary and cultural issues. Vocabulary development, use of idiomatic expression, and advancement of oral proficiency in Spanish. May be taken as an adjunct to lower-division LTSP courses. Recommended for students planning to study abroad. Prerequisite: LISP IC/ICX or LTSP ID/IDX or LTSP 2A or 2B or 2C or 2D or 50A or 50B or 50C.

LTSP 31. Conversation Workshop II (1)

Enhances intermediate/advanced students' command of spoken Spanish through debates on literary and cultural issues and the formulation and expression of thoughts in Spanish. May be taken as an adjunct to lower- and upper-division LTSP courses. Recommended for students planning to study abroad. Prerequisite: LISP IC/ICX or LISP ID/IDX or LTSP 2A or 2B or 2C or 2D or 50A or 50B or 50C.

LTSP 41. Conversation and Orthography Workshop (1)

The workshop format of this course allows students to attain a stronger command of skills in matters of Spanish orthography, spelling, punctuation, and accent rules. May be taken as an adjunct to lower- or upper-division LTSP courses. Recommended for students planning to study abroad. Prerequisite: LISP IC/ICX or LISP ID/IDX or LTSP 2A or 2B or 2C or 2D or 50A or 50B or 50C.

LTSP 50A. Readings in Peninsular Literature (4)

An introduction to Peninsular literature, this course offers a selection of major works and introduces students to literary analysis through reading extensive texts in Spanish. Two or more quarters of courses in the 50 series are suggested before students proceed to upper-division courses. Prerequisite: two years of college Spanish or the equivalent.

LTSP 50B. Readings in Latin American Literature (4)

An introduction to Latin American literature, this course offers a selection of major works and introduces students to literary analysis through reading extensive texts in Spanish. Two or more quarters of courses in the 50 series are suggested before students proceed to upper-division courses. Prerequisite: two years of college Spanish or the equivalent.

LTSP 50C. Readings in Latin American Topics (4)

An introduction to major topics in Latin American literature, this course focuses on the literature of a particular region, period, or movement. Works vary from those in 50B and introduce students to literary analysis through reading extensive texts in Spanish. Prerequisite: two years of college Spanish or the equivalent.

UPPER-DIVISION

Prerequisite: upper-division standing or consent of instructor. Additional prerequisites may be specified below.

Note: As of fall 1992, students must have taken at least one (but preferably two) course(s) in the LTSP 50A-B-C sequence with a grade of C- or better before enrolling in upper-division courses. Without fulfillment of this prerequisite, students must obtain the consent of the instructor of the requested course.

LTSP 107. Literature of the Fifteenth Century (4)

Survey of cultural texts including courtly romances, political poetry, Columbus's letters, and the tragicomedia La Celestina. Issues of gender, blood purity, social estates, and colonialism will be discussed. Repeatable for credit when topics vary.

LTSP 115. Early Modern Spanish Cultural Production (4)

Study of writing and/or spectacle in Spain in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Close reading of texts and analysis of ideological and historical context. Topics may include the comedia (public theater), religious drama, poetry, or early narrative forms such as the picaresque novel. Repeatable for credit as topics vary. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTSP 116. Representations of Spanish Colonialism (4)

A workshop designed to encourage writing of longer narrative forms. There will be discussion of student work, together with analysis and discussion of novels from the present and previous ages. May be taken for credit three times. Prerequisite: LTWR 8A. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTWR 107. Writing for Children (4)

A workshop in writing for young children (5–8 years). The stories will be directed towards the act of reading aloud, either at bedtime or in a group situation. There will be many weekly readings assigned in, and about, the genre. Prerequisites: LTWR 8A; department approval.

LTWR 108. Writing for Young Adults (4)

A workshop in writing for 9–12 year-olds. Students will be asked to write one long chapter story or a series of short stories for young adults to read to themselves. The stories will generally involve young teens. Weekly readings will be assigned. Prerequisites: LTWR 8A; department approval.

LTWR 109. Writing and Publishing Children's Literature (4)

A workshop in writing for children, with the additional focus of exploring successful approaches to publication of children's stories. There will be regular weekly reading and writing assignments. Prerequisites: LTWR 8A; LTWR 107 recommended; department approval via stamp or pre-authorization.

LTWR 110. Screen Writing (4)

A workshop designed to encourage writing of original screen plays and adaptations. There will be discussion of student work, together with analysis of discussion of representative examples of screen writing. May be taken for credit three times.

LTWR 111. Prose Poem (4)

Although prose poems have been written by writers all over the world, the question of what constitutes a prose poem has never been adequately answered. Through practice, we will explore the inner dynamics central to this mixed genre. Prerequisite: LTWR 8B. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTWR 113. Intercultural Writing (4)

This course is an introduction to modes of writing from other cultural systems vastly different from the cultural-aesthetic assumptions of Anglo-American writing. While disclosing the limitations of the English language, this course attempts to provide new language strategies for students. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTWR 115. Experimental Writing (4)

This workshop explores writing for which the traditional generic distinctions of prose/poetry, fiction/documentary, narrative/discourse do not apply. Students taking this course will be asked to challenge the boundaries of literature to discover new forms and modes of expression. May be taken for credit three times.

LTWR 119. Writing for Performance (4)

A workshop and survey of experimental approaches to the writing and production of performance works in a range of literary genres. Emphasis will be placed on the integration of written texts with non-verbal elements from the visual arts, theater, and music. Prerequisite: LTWR 8A or 8B, to be determined by quarterly offerings of LTWR 119.

Nonfiction Prose Workshops

LTWR 120. Personal Narrative (4)

Instructor and students will discuss student work as well as published personal narratives. May be taken for credit three times. Prerequisite: LTWR 8C.

LTWR 121. Reportage (4)

A workshop designed to encourage the full range of reportage writing: observations, interviews, case studies, profiles, reporter-at-large. Instructor and students will discuss student work and published reportage. May be taken for credit three times. Prerequisite: LTWR 8C.

LTWR 122. Writing for the Sciences (4)

A workshop in writing about science for the public. Students will study and then construct metaphors or analogues which introduce readers to scientific perplexities. May be repeated for credit when topics vary.

LTWR 125. Persuasion (4)

A workshop in the writing of argument or persuasion, with particular attention to strategies of persuasion for different kinds of audiences. Instructor and students will discuss student work as well as published work. May be taken for credit three times. Prerequisite: LTWR 8C.

LTWR 127. General Nonfiction Prose Workshop (4)

A workshop designed to encourage the writing of all forms of nonfiction prose. This workshop is usually limited to advanced students in the writing major. May be taken for credit three times. Prerequisite: LTWR 8C.

LTWR 128. Editing Workshop (4)

A workshop to acquaint students with the fundamentals of bringing written works from concept to publication. Genres covered will vary with instructor.

LTWR 135. The Art of the Manifesto (4)

Introduction to the work of modern and avant-garde writers and artists who have developed the manifesto laying out radical propositions and proposals about the nature of literature and art and their functions in the contemporary world. Historical survey within a workshop approach. Prerequisites: completion of LTWR 8A/B/C; department approval. (Not offered 2002–03.)

Writing Process, Written Discourse, and Writing Pedagogy

These courses are not writing workshop courses like those listed above. Rather, they examine various aspects of writing as a field of study and writing pedagogy. Writing majors who plan to teach writing may be particularly interested in these courses. See the department for applicability of these courses to the writing major requirements.

Note: As of fall 1991, all writing majors are required to take one course chosen from offerings numbered LTWR 140–144 to fulfill one of their upper-division requirements.

LTWR 140. History of Writing (4)

A review of the history of the development of alphabets and writing systems. Survey of the rise of literacy since the fifteenth century and analysis of continuing literacy problems in developed and developing countries. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTWR 141. The Process of Writing (4)

A study of writing as a creative process. Review of research on creativity and on the writing process and analysis of writers' introspective accounts of their work. Delineation of the stages in writing process and exploration of implications for learning to write. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTWR 142. Forms of Written Discourse (4)

A review of current rhetorical theory and discourse theory. Some attention to recent developments in text linguistics. Students will write several discourse types and explore differences among the types, with special attention to differences for the writing process and for the structure of the written discourse itself.

LTWR 143. Stylistics and Grammar (4)

A close look at sentence-level features of written discourse—stylistics and sentence grammars. Students will review recent research on these topics and experiment in their own writing with various stylistic and syntactic options.

LTWR 144. The Teaching of Writing (4)

Wide reading in current theory and practice of teaching writing in schools and colleges. Careful attention to various models of classroom writing instruction and to different approaches in the individual conference. Students in this course may observe instruction in the UCSD college writing programs or tutor freshman students in those programs.

LTWR 146. The Writing of Oral Histories (4)

A methodological and theoretical introduction to the compilation, transcription, and editing of spoken personal and historical narratives. Along with discussions of the relation of orality to writing, students will engage in a number of fieldwork interviews and in their development and completion as publishable written works. Repeatable for credit when topics vary. Prerequisites: LTWR 8A, 8B, and 8C, or consent of instructor. (Not offered 2002–03.)

Directed Study and Special Study

LTWR 195. Apprentice Teaching (4)

Undergraduate instruction assistance. Students will 1) assist TA in editing students' writing for LTWR 8A and 8C during class and outside of class; and 2) prepare a paper and report for the professor at the end of the quarter. Prerequisite: LTWR 144, The Teaching of Writing.

LTWR 196. Honors Thesis (4)

Senior thesis research and writing for students who have been accepted for the Literature Honors Program and who have completed LTGN 191. Oral exam.

LTWR 198. Directed Group Study (2 or 4)

Directed group study in areas of writing not normally covered in courses. (P/NP grades only.) Repeatable for credit when areas of study vary.

LTWR 199. Special Studies (2 or 4)

Tutorial; individual guidance in areas of writing not normally covered in courses. (P/NP grades only.) Prerequisites: upper-division standing and permission of department. May be taken for credit three times.

GRADUATE

LTWR 260. Autoethnographies of Literacy (4)

Designed for public school teachers, this writing seminar concerns ethnographic and autoethnographic studies of "literate" and "illiterate" in the United States. Prerequisite: graduate standing or consent of instructor.

LTWR 271. Theory and Practice of College Writing Instruction (4)

In this course we will explore the implications for writing instruction of current discourse theory and of linguistics (sentence-level and text-level). We will also review research on writing instruction and look carefully at several models of classroom instruction and individual conferencing. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTWR 272. Research in Composing and Writing Discourse (4)

This course will survey current research on composing and written discourse. It will also explore various problems and issues in designing research studies.

LTWR 276. Theory and Research on Literacy (4)

This seminar surveys literature on literacy from perspectives such as education, anthropology, and English studies.

LTWR 278. Topics in Rhetoric (4)

This course examines the influence of modern philosophy on modern rhetorical theory, with emphasis on the twentieth century. Prerequisite: graduate standing. (Not offered 2002–03.)

LTWR 280. Graduate Workshop in Imaginative Writing (4)

This course will be a workshop where students will produce work every week to share with the class. Their work will be critiqued in class and in conference with the instructor. They will be expected to complete a substantial body of work, one which is publishable as is. Weekly reading assignments will be required, in order to provide a common basis for discussion of poetics, politics, and process. The purpose of the class is to give those graduate students in literature, who have written poetry and fiction already, a chance to develop their abilities in those genres. Repeatable for credit when material/instructors vary.
